WOODED DEATH TOGETHER.
Louis Hammond and his bride Kathryn, of Des Moines, Iowa, came to Baltimore from New York Monday with the avowed intention of dying together by their own hands. Saturday afternoon their bodies were found in a room at the American House, death having resulted from morphine poisoning.
It was clearly a case of double suicide, and one of the most remarkable ever recorded, characterized by coolness and premeditation, and having unique features, for before the attempting to end their lives they signed their names to a letter addressed to the coroner, telling him what they contemplated, and why they sought self-destruction.
On Tuesday they took chloral, but neither died. It is supposed that they took an overdose, which occasioned nausea and saved their lives. The day following they made a second attempt, and on this failing Mrs. Hammond swallowed morphine, while her husband stood by and waited the result. She died at ten o'clock that morning.
Then Hammond endeavored to kill himself. He took morphine, but this failed to do its work. Then he drove a baton several inches into his breast until he could move his heart with it; but this too, failed again to do its work. He looked his dead wife in the room while he went to purchase a revolver. He died some time Thursday night. It was probably the chloral and morphine which caused his death, as the revolver was found with all its chambers filled.
From Wednesday morning until Thursday night, by ingenious planning, he managed to keep the hotel employes out of the room, and remained with the body of his wife without any one suspecting that a crime had taken place.
Just before he died he wrote a complete account of how both he and his wife had taken their lives, not omitting the slightest detail. In the other letter which both signed, they informed the coroner.
"Our money is low and we are tired of the 'grind.' We have no friends who need be notified, or who would respond if notified. We have but one request to make, and that is that we be not separated. We are man and wife and wish to take our rest together. If the sale of our few belongings will suffice, we should be glad to have you see that we have not the pauper graveyard.
No doubt some undertaker will take charge of us for the advertisement, and a grass plot can be purchased. We will do the rest. From our slight store of money please pay our hotel bill of $4 and express our regrets to the landlord for the sad necessity which caused us to inflict ourselves upon him. Thanking you in advance for your kindness, and asking the reporters to be lenient, we remain, very truly yours." Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hammond were married in Lynn on the evening of Monday, August 5, by Rev. George W.
Osgood. From Mrs. Osgood, wife of the clergyman, it is learned that Hammond came to her home on the morning of that day, and stated that he desired to engage the service of Mr. Osgood to marry him that evening.
When evening came Mr. Hammond arrived with his bride, a prepossessing young woman, apparently about 18 or 20 years of age, whom he introduced as Miss Kathryn M. Sawyer.
While Hammond was absent securing his marriage license from the city clerk Miss Sawyer, in conversation with Mrs. Osgood, stated that she belonged in Newark, N. J., and was one of the oldest of a family of eight children. She had been at work in New York city, and there met Hammond, who was a traveling salesman for a jewelry firm in the West. The young woman said her parents were both alive.
The couple were married by Mr. Osgood, Mrs. Osgood being the only witness, and they took their departure.
